Episode #37 is sort of a mood piece recorded on the 28th anniversary of my Father's passing. Just a few new things, including another track from the just released Decemberists EP. We make some beautiful Power Pop noise, slip in a bit of classy Jazz with Thelonious Monk, Count Basie and Frank Sinatra and round things out with a whole bunch of comfort food. This might be the last episode from this iteration of Mike's Basement as we are moving out of state next week.
